

Special Feature

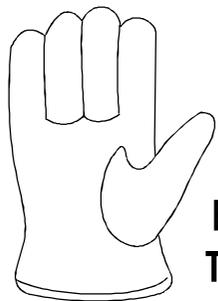

COMMON TYPES OF LEATHER SPLITS:

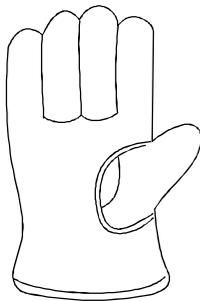

Side Split: Portion of hide that covers rib area of animal. More uniform than shoulder leather, has less imperfections, scars and open (weak) fibers, more flexible.

Shoulder Split: comes from shoulder and neck of hide. Fibers tend to be coarse and less uniform than side split firmer and generally less flexible.

Grain Leather: This is the grain side of the hide. It has smooth surface and is very supple.

Bolton
Thumb

Bolton Thumb-

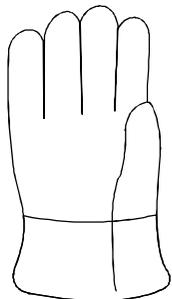

The most popular pattern for leather back textile gloves offers comfort as well as good hand protection.

Keystone thumb-

Separate inset thumb that gives a double layer of leather for longer wear and more protection.

Wing Thumb

Straight Thumb

Wing thumb-

No exposed seams to split or wear but, comfortable and good mobility.

Straight thumb-

Basic thumb pattern that provides basic fitting.
